

BILLIONS OF ENTREPRENEURS

HOW CHINA AND INDIA
ARE RESHAPING THEIR
FUTURES—AND YOURS

TARUN KHANNA

Harvard Business Review Press
Boston, Massachusetts

CONTENTS

	Preface	ix
ONE	Reimagining China and India	1
Part I Foundations
TWO	Statecraft The Art, Science, and Illusion of Governing 2.4 Billion People	31
THREE	Bias and Noise Information Accessibility in China and India	53
FOUR	Fiat and Fairness Why China Can Build Cities Overnight and India Cannot	69
FIVE	Manna and Miasma Meanderings Through the Chinese and Indian Financial Firmaments	91
Part II Enterprise
SIX	Infosys and TCL Unshackling Indigenous Enterprise	121
SEVEN	Microsoft and Metro Views from the World's Corner Offices	141

EIGHT	Diaspora Dividends Paragons and Pariahs from the Overseas Chinese and Indians	167
NINE	Village Engineering and Reengineering In Search of Rural Fortunes	189
TEN	Barefoot Doctors and Medical Tourists Futile Attempts to Confront the Grim Reaper	213
Part III Future
ELEVEN	Old and New Roads to Mandalay Hard Power in Burma and Beyond	237
TWELVE	Film Stars and Gurus Soft Power in Bollywood and Beyond	257
THIRTEEN	Buddha and Software Old Links and New	277
FOURTEEN	Corporate Bridges Linking China, India, and the West	295
	Notes	313
	Acknowledgments	335
	Index	339
	About the Author	353