

Street Foods

URBAN FOOD AND EMPLOYMENT IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES

Irene Tinker

Contents

Introduction 3

Organization of the Book	5	Policy Origins of the EPOC Project	6
Designing the Study	9	Refining the Design	14

PART I Cities and Their Street Foods 19

One Bogor, Indonesia 23

Local Context	23	Street Foods in Bogor	26	The IPB Streetfood Project	35	Impact of the Two Studies	40
----------------------	----	------------------------------	----	-----------------------------------	----	----------------------------------	----

Two Iloilo, Philippines 43

Local Context	43	The Survey	46	Survival of Street Food Enterprises	55	Street Food Policies in Manila	56
----------------------	----	-------------------	----	--	----	---------------------------------------	----

Three Chonburi, Thailand 61

Local Context	61	The Street Project with CUSRI	63	Distinctly Thai Aspects	69
----------------------	----	--------------------------------------	----	--------------------------------	----

Four Manikganj, Bangladesh 75

Local Context	75	Street Foods in a Poor Country	80	Interventions	89
----------------------	----	---------------------------------------	----	----------------------	----

Five Minia, Egypt 93

Local Context	93	Street Foods in Minia	95	The Street Foods Vendors Organization	102	A Model for Street Vendors	110
----------------------	----	------------------------------	----	--	-----	-----------------------------------	-----

Six Ziguinchor, Senegal 113

Local Context 113 The Survey 116 National Policy and Local Vendors 121

Seven Ile-Ife, Nigeria 125

Local Context 125 Street Foods in Ife 128 Government versus the Street Vendors 134 Helping Street Food Vendors in Ife, Ibadan, and Lagos 137

PART II The Street Food Project: Influencing Development

Theory and Practice 147

Eight Vendors and the Economics of Their Enterprises 149

Size and Seasonality of the Trade 149 Involvement of Women and Family 152 Basic Data on Vendors 155 Running a Street Food Enterprise 162 Economics of the Street Food Trade 166 Street Food Vending as a Microenterprise 176

Nine Foods on the Street and the People Who Eat Them 177

Varieties and Attributes of Foods Sold on the Street 178 Demand for Street Foods 183 But Is It Nutritious? 187 Is It Safe? 189 Policy Shifts 194

Ten Implications for Research, Planning, and Policy 196

Improving Microenterprises 198 Macro-Discourses and Policy 203 Influencing Theory and Practice 210

Afterword Putting It All Together 212

The Future of the Street Food Trade 215 Bon Appetit 216

Notes 217

Glossary 229

Bibliography 231

Index of Recipes 245

General Index 246